WHAT IS SYDNEY NORTH HEALTH NETWORK?

Northern Sydney PHN, operated by the Sydney North Health Network, is one of 31 Primary Health Networks (PHNs) established by the Australian Government to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of medical services for the community. Our focus is on patients who are at risk of poor health outcomes and we work to improve the coordination of their care so they receive the right care, in the right place at the right time.

Better health outcomes for patients is achieved by working together with a network of health professionals including General Practitioners, Practice Nurses, Allied Health Providers, the Northern Sydney Local Health District and other health services. This partnership approach and community focus is reflected in our vision: Achieving together – better health, better care.

Sydney North Health Network aims to simplify the healthcare system by providing better information, education and networking opportunities for Health Professionals, connections across the health system, a better experience for health providers and better health for the community.

Against a backdrop of strong population growth for our region, an ageing population, potential healthcare workforce shortages and greater numbers of hospitalisations and GP visits over the next 15 years, SNHN will be concentrating on innovative and sustainable solutions that shift the focus of care out of the hospitals and into the hands of primary healthcare.

HOW WILL SYDNEY NORTH HEALTH NETWORK HELP YOU?

Sydney North Health Network (SNHN) will work directly with GPs, specialists, hospitals and other primary care providers to create integrated health solutions across local communities to make it easier for everyone, especially those in need of coordinated care, to access a range of healthcare services and providers.

Practice support and service continuity is a priority for the Sydney North Health Network. SNHN will continue to support health professionals in our region via education events & networking, an interactive and resource friendly website, and a Clinical Council with various health representatives from the region.

Driven by a set of national priorities and locally assessed needs, Sydney North Health Network will work directly with GPs, specialists, hospitals and other primary care providers to improve and better coordinate care across the local health system for patients requiring care from multiple providers. As a result patients will have improved access to a range of health care providers.

YOUR VOICE

Sydney North Health Network is supported and advised by a Clinical Council and a Community Council.

Our Community Council comprises of community members lending their voice to help shape local healthcare. Members of the Community Council will help inform the SNHN Board on local health matters, priorities and gaps.

Our Clinical Council brings together local clinicians to provide guidance to the SNHN Board on clinical issues relevant to primary care, including providing input to determine local health priorities, developing strategies and identifying opportunities for improvements across primary/acute healthcare interfaces, overseeing development of clinical pathways, quality, efficiency and continuity of care, advising on development of innovative services, support and engagement of primary care, and primary care research.
