

ANZSOM Annual Scientific Meeting 2016

Sunday 21st August to Wednesday 24th August 2016

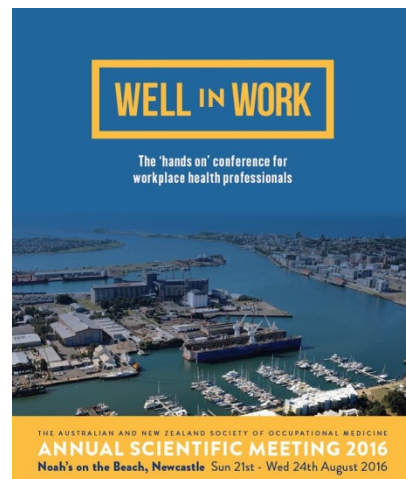

Noah's on the Beach, Newcastle

The ASM Organising Committee are pleased to announce the upcoming ANZSOM Annual Scientific Meeting to be held at Noah's on the Beach, Newcastle.

The topic for this year's ASM will be "Well in Work" which will incorporate the following elements:

- Major themes addressing topical issues in workplace health
The conference will feature high calibre speakers and interactive formats, with major themes including health surveillance, mental health in the workplace, and workplace health promotion.
- Practical site visits
As usual, a highlight will be a diverse range of site visits, which will lend practical application to the conference themes and showcase this beautiful seaside city. Visits will include: Moly-Cop Steelworks, Kooratang Island, Westrac and Hunter Medical Research Institute, with others in the pipeline.
- Medical and nursing streams
The conference will once again feature parallel streams for nursing and medical professionals as well as the popular CPR update.

Registrations will open shortly, so stay tuned.

Call for papers - Inaugural Best Paper Award

Contributed papers are an important part of the program every year, and this year an award has been formalised for the Best Paper. The Organising Committee is particularly seeking papers that align with the conference themes.

Papers should be submitted using the form available on the ANZSOM website. Submissions close on 30 June 2016.

Criteria for the award are also included on the form and on the website. Click here for more information.
